

Atlas Extravagaza

Delta Aimag and Defiance Industries invite you to Steiner Stadium to witness an exhibition displaying the combat capabilities of modern Atlas assault platforms. Various new and legacy platforms will be demonstrated, and sales representatives will be available during and after the event to select and finance the best options for your forces. With each Atlas unit purchased, spectators will get a free use of the Aggressive Audience Participation system, where you can remotely control weapons in the area. Additionally, authorized representatives of military and militia forces may request specific weapons platforms be tested against various Atlas models in the area to demonstrate their capabilities.

Scenario Rules

Participants select one Tier 1 Atlas variant to start with. This unit starts at any full hex touching the wall of the area. After destroying an enemy unit or having your unit destroyed, participants may select a new Atlas from a higher tier.

Enhanced networked targeting software is in use in Steiner Stadium. Apply a -2 modifier to all Target Numbers for physical and weapon attacks.

Crowd controlled weapons systems may make attacks on player units at any point.

After destroying an enemy unit or having your unit destroyed, participants may select 1 physical prize mini to take home. All prize minis will be distributed by the end of the scenario.

Optional Rules

Card initiative, fire for effect, Stackpoling, the GM is bribable for one time effects (I like gummy candies and soda!)

No 'I get to take them all' here!

Players may select 1 'Buff' each time a bounty is claimed. You can only select each 'Buff' once until you have used every 'Buff'.

Stumble - At the end of the movement phase, select a target unit. This unit moves 1D6 hexes in a random direction. Reduce the number of hexes moved if the final hex contains a barrier, such as a wall or enemy unit.

Tornado - Every unit is randomly displaced per the instructions for Stumble.

Bad Tech - Apply a critical hit to any component in any unit in any non-head location during any phase.
